

Brothers, Men of the Judiciary,

You insisted on adding a new debt to what I already owe you. You come today representing justice and the supremacy of the law; you represent security, assurance and justice for every citizen. At these historical moments in the life of our country, I would like to express my utmost thanks from the depth of my heart.

I pledge, before you and to the people through you, that law will prevail, the Revolution will be codified and no measure will be taken, except through the law.

Meanwhile, I will not hesitate to crush any manoeuvre in order to ensure security and assurance for our people, and to safeguard the society which we endeavour to construct on free and sound bases.

I pledge before you and to the people through you, that I will not allow, but will crush any manoeuvre aimed against the liberty of this nation and the freedom of the citizen.

I declare very clearly and frankly that I will eliminate any centres of power. Our noble and genuine people will live and always remain as the true and only centre of power for every source of strength in the life of this country.

I thank you from all my heart, and let us always remember that we are in a battle, and must not forget in all our actions that there is no voice higher than that of the battle.

May God guide and back our steps in order to realise security, assurance, justice and the supremacy of the law for our people.

PRÉSIDENT

TO THE LAW
