Shibley Telhami

A survey sponsored by University of Maryland
fielded by StatNet

Survey Methodology

The survey was conducted by phone among a nationally representative sample of Israeli Jews. The panel was recruited by StatNet by telephone (70% cellular and 30% landline). The panel was recruited using a random sample of more than two million phones on a database divided by seven districts, which takes each district's proportionate size into consideration. It included a down-weighted oversample of 130 Haredim (Ultra-Orthodox Jews). A total of 650 panelists completed the survey. Responses were weighted by age and religiousness using benchmarks from the Central Bureau of Statistics. The survey was conducted May 6-9, 2018.

The margin of error is 3.92%

Valuable assistance was provided by Yousef Makladeh and Yara Fero from StatNet. Brittany Kyser and Sean Rao were particularly helpful.
